The Absolute Flexible Fund is a concentrated, best ideas convertible bond fund with the flexibility to adjust individual security hedging in order to pursue attractive exposure-based opportunities. Unlike a traditional convertible arbitrage strategy the Fund's equity exposure will not always be fully hedged.

The Fund focuses on convertible bonds that are trading below par and/or where downside is limited by the credit/maturity of the convertible security. In the environments where these opportunities are available, this approach may create meaningful potential upside asymmetry if the unhedged equity security increases in value.

CONVERTIBLE BOND ATTRIBUTES & FUND DIFFERENTIATORS

- A convertible bond is a corporate bond with additional feature to "convert" the bond into equity at or above a predetermined price.
- For this reason, a convertible bond is often viewed as a bond with "embedded call option" on the company's stock

4 MAJOR COMPONENTS TO A CONVERTIBLE BOND

3 DIFFERENT APPROACHES:

-  CONVERTIBLE BOND
Long
-  CONVERTIBLE ARBITRAGE
Equity exposure is hedged out continuously
-  FLXIX
Flexible (opportunistic) approach to equity exposure

WHAT MAKES FLXIX DIFFERENT?

Because of their conversion feature, many convertible bonds have a large amount of equity sensitivity.

Traditional convertible arbitrage buys the convertible bond and shorts the underlying stock to hedge out the equity sensitivity.

The Absolute Flexible Fund will use a flexible approach in order to pursue opportunities that may come from that equity exposure.

DEFINITIONS The Bloomberg US Convertible Bond Index tracks the performance of USD-denominated convertible securities with minimum amount outstanding of $500mn. The iBoxx High Yield Index consists of liquid USD high yield bonds, selected to provide a balanced representation of the broad USD high yield corporate bond universe. The Bloomberg Aggregate Bond Index broadly tracks the performance of the U.S. investment-grade bond market. The index includes government Treasury securities, corporate bonds, mortgage-backed securities (MBS), asset-backed securities (ABS), and munis to simulate the universe of bonds in the market. The S&P 500 Index, or Standard & Poor's 500 Index, is a market-capitalization-weighted index of 500 leading publicly traded companies in the U.S. Beta is the measure of a fund's relative volatility as compared to the S&P 500 Index which by definition is 1.00. Accordingly, a fund with a 1.10 beta is expected to perform 10% better than the Index in up markets and 10% worse in down markets.

Past performance does not guarantee future results. The Fund's net asset value and investment return will fluctuate based upon changes in the value of its portfolio securities. There is no assurance that the Fund will achieve its investment objective, and an investment in the Fund is not by itself a complete or balanced investment program. For a complete description of the Fund's principal investment risks please refer to the prospectus.

Asset allocation decisions may not always be correct and may adversely affect Fund performance. The value of a convertible security is influenced by changes in interest rates, with investment value declining as interest rates increase and increasing as interest rates decline. The credit standing of the issuer and other factors also may have an effect on a convertible security's investment value. Debt securities have interest rate, inflation and credit risks and are subject to prepayment and default risk. High yield and junk securities involve greater risk and tend to be more sensitive to economic conditions and credit risk. Short sales may be considered speculative and it may be difficult to purchase securities to meet delivery obligations. The Fund may leverage transactions which include selling securities short as well as borrowing for other than temporary or emergency purposes. Leverage creates the risk of magnified capital losses. Diversification does not prevent loss or enhance returns. Foreign investments present additional risk due to currency fluctuations, economic and political factors, government regulations, differences in accounting standards and other factors. Investments in emerging markets involve even greater risks. Small, mid and large cap stocks are subject to substantial risks such as market, business, size volatility, management experience, product diversification, financial resource, competitive strength, liquidity, and potential to fall out of favor that may cause their prices to fluctuate over time, sometimes rapidly and unpredictably. The Fund is actively managed and may experience high turnover. This may cause higher fees, expenses and taxes, which could detract from Fund performance.
